Dear Mr. Weisberg,

I did not mean to upset you in my last letter, I only meant to ask a question: Is this what you think? Obviously it isn't.

I have a few questions to ask you for your opinion. Secret Service Agent Glen Bennett made notes and things on the return trip to Washington, right? O.K. Bennett claims he saw the bullet strike in the president's back, Right? In Willis slide #5 and in a picture I have from Betzner, there is a man in the follow up car, behind President Kennedy's limousine, the man on the rear seat is turned toward the right. Both men in the Willis slide are either looking forward (the man on the left of the rear seat) or looking right, (the man on the right of the rear seat). Is either of these me Glen Bennett? If not, which man in this car is Bennett? Who are these two men on the rear seat? If the man on the right is Bennett, how could he have seen the shot? Why didn't he alarm anyone? The man on the right looks as though he is staring off into the crowd.

Another question, how long after the assassination did the Stemmons sign get moved? Why was it moved? Who moved it?

I hope you can help me with this. Again, I didn't mean to upset you - I was trying to help. I have only been studying this for a short while - forgive me.

Sincerely
